

Briefly, I object to the proposition that internet providers service providers be forced to provide easy access to law enforcement officials who wish to "tap" into their connections. The internet should be beyond regulation by the federal government.